You can still see all customer reviews for the product. We switched to Comotomo bottles and the CT bottles fit in the Avent warmer. Reviewed in the United States on October 18, 2018 Do you sit around all day trying to find new reasons to piss your newborn off. If you do, and you dont own one of these kajiggers, Im telling you youre missing out on the PLATINUM opportunity. Does it take 2 minutes to achieve fusion or 20 minutes to reach the temperature of polar bear piss. Who the hell knows because this thing doesnt have a timer or an auto off feature so youll spend all your time guessing wether youre going to melt your babys face or just piss them off with cold formula!!! Every parents dream. All the while listening to your kid cry because they have to wait 5 minutes to get something you could have just made with warm water. Great product. Please try again later. The manufacturer commented on the review below Dustin S. 1.0 out of 5 stars Before we purchased this we.

Before we purchased this we were running the bottle under hot water to warm it up. This is zero improvement on that. How this device works is you place the bottle in water which this device heats. It just keeps heating it until the milk is practically boiling or you stop it. You have to stand there and keep taking the bottle out and checking it to see what the temperature is. Whats even the point of having this. Even the symbols on the dial dont make any sense. We purchased a warmer from Dr. Browns which has a timer, and both an audio and visual indicator to tell you when its done. The Dr. Browns warmer can be set for certain size bottles, amounts of milk, or a regular timer. Please try again later. Not sure if theres an auto shut off but there doesnt seem to be. Weve accidentally walked away for a while and its still chugging along so it could be a serious fire risk. Cant say it doesnt work. It does. Just not easily. Not great for tired and weary parents. Please try again later. Yep you can thaw them in about 10 minutes on highest setting OR WARM A BOTTLE IN 2.5 MINUTED FLAT. This is amazing! Please try again later. Please try again later. First of all, warming times are pretty long. We have to use drinking water which is a consumption that we could have saved on. The instructions requires that we throw out the water after every use. You have to pull the cord out every single time to throw the water out. Also, we have to fill the bottle warmer with the same amount of water as the amount of formula but its very hard to see the level of water when the container is not see through. Can you imagine waking up in the middle of the night with your eyes half closed and trying to figure out how much water youve put in the warmer. There is no timer on it either which means that you have to set a timer yourself on your watch, phone or your stove. If it goes off and you are busy with your baby or forget to switch it off immediately, formula overheats. The instructions in the user manual are also not 100% clear. There is no indication in the manual on which setting is what. There are images on the warmer itself and I sort of had to figure things out myself. It would have been useful to see in the manual that the small bottle is for formula levels under 4 oz, the big bottle is for more, the indicator that looks like vapor or whatever it looks like is for the keep warm setting. I really wanted to like this product because its compatible with the Avent bottles but I am really not happy with it. Please try again later. 0 out of 5 stars I have to set timer on my phone or look at the clock every minute. When I use this at middle of the night, I fall asleep and this thing is on until I wake up. Please try again later. Please try again later. Laura Mather 5.0 out of 5 stars From fridge cold, it has warmed 3 to 4 oz bottles to perfect temps within 23 mins. Please try again later. Please try again later. The manufacturer commented on the review below RunnerDad 1.0 out of 5 stars I was on my inaugural 400am dadfeeding with a bottle of breastmilk, but it was cold, and the baby was wailing, and so I just bought this warmer without thinking, hoping to avoid this situation again the next night. I didnt even really know what a bottle warmer was or how it worked. It turns out to be just a little electric pot. You fill it was a few ounces of water, then drop the bottle in. The bottle floats around for few minutes, and then you have a warm bottle. This doesnt even have a timer, or an autooff feature. Youre really just guessing at when to take the bottle out. The description says it can warm a bottle in 3 minutes, but thats if the bottle is already at room temperature. Coming out of the fridge, its more like 68. The settings on its dial make no sense and arent explained in the manual. So this is a pointless device that is more hassle than just using warm water from your sink. Please try again later. Dont know why everyone complains about the timing etc. Its not a big deal to set a timer on your phone and if you know your baby needs to eat every 23 hours you should warm up the milk beforehand to have it ready, even in the night, SET AN ALARM lol.

So I use the kiinde storage bags, the times in the manual say it take only like 34 minutes but for my fridge cold milk it takes 6 minutes and 15 seconds to be safely warm and for regular bottles which are thicker plastic it takes about 78 minutes to warm up. I make it before my newborn wakes up, and take it out half way just to make sure its still okay in there and not getting too hot. Its been pretty consistent with the kiinde bags. Anyways, good product. Life saver for me not wanting to be the only one doing feedings in the middle of the night and even if I am it helps a ton. Please try again later. Please try again later. Philips makes two different types of Avent bottle warmers. The first one has a simple knob for setting the temperature of the unit. The other is a digital unit with multiple settings, depending on what and how much you are heating. Both use hot water to bring either a bottle or food container to the proper temperature. Electric Bottle and Baby Food Warmer Place the warmer on a stable, level surface, and plug it in. Place the warmer basket in the warmer base. Place the filled, assembled baby bottle or food container in the warmer. For smaller bottles or containers, fill the warmer with water to just above the level of milk in the bottle or food in the container. For larger bottles or containers, fill the warmer with water to just below the rim of the warmer. Turn the warmer on. Turn the knob on the front of the warmer to setting 3. For smaller bottles, leave them in the warmer for 4 to 5 minutes. Some special bottles from Avent use setting 2. Remove the bottle or container from the warmer after the appropriate time has passed. Test the milk or food temperature before feeding your baby to avoid burns. Digital Bottle and Baby Food Warmer Munchkin Bottle Warmer Instructions Learn More Place the warmer on a stable, level surface. Plug it in. Release the front catch on the lid, and open the lid. Fill the warmer with 1 oz.

Place the filled and assembled baby bottle or food container in the warmer. Close the lid until the latch clicks in place. When the warmer beeps for 30 seconds, and all display lights flash, the cycle is complete. Open the lid, carefully, to release any steam. Carefully, remove the bottle or container from the unit with a clean cloth. Test the temperature of the milk or food before feeding your baby to avoid burns. Warnings To prevent bacterial contamination, do not reheat milk that has already been heated. Keep hands away from the warmer during the warming cycle, and open the warmer carefully at the end of the warming cycle to avoid scalding burns from excess steam or hot water.
